ISLAND FEDERAL CREDIT UNION PRESENTS $15K GIFT TO RONALD MCDONALD HOUSE CHARITIES
CONTRIBUTION SUPPORTS FAMILIES WITH SICK CHILDREN AMIDST COVID-19 CRISIS

On June 3, 2020, Island Federal Credit Union (Island Federal) President/CEO Bret W. Sears presented a $15,000 check to Matt Campo, CEO and Devon Daniel, Senior Director of Development of Ronald McDonald House Charities New York Metro (RMHC NYM). The funds will be used for the organization’s efforts to support families during their child’s medical crisis.

“RMHC families are supported through the generosity of our community. Friends like Island Federal help us provide families with a place to rest while they advocate for their sick child,” said Matt Campo, CEO of RMHC NYM. “Today, the COVID-19 pandemic adds even more stress and worry to the resilient families we care for. Island Federal is helping us ease that burden, and we are so grateful” he continued.

Ronald McDonald House Charities New York Metro provides programs and services such as overnight accommodations, meal programs and transportation to families, just steps away from major children’s hospitals. The organization’s goal is to focus on taking care of families, so they can take care of their sick child.

The COVID-19 pandemic resulted in RMHC NYM temporarily closing some of its programs and services to protect its families. In the interim, the charity conducts weekly wellness checks with over 42 families to provide groceries and pantry items to support their needs when they are in the hospital with their sick child. As hospitals have very strict visitor policies at this time, RMHC NYM offers an iPad Program so families can have virtual visits with their loved ones. In addition, they provides gift cards for gas to families who endure long travel times and expenses to visit their child’s hospital in the absence of its programs, and temporarily repurposed a portion of the Ronald McDonald House in New Hyde Park for healthcare workers.

Bret W. Sears, Island Federal President/CEO adds, “For years, Ronald McDonald House has provided comfort and compassion to families who are coping with a seriously ill child; however, 2020 has been especially difficult for those families who had the added challenge of coping with the COVID-19 pandemic. Island Federal is proud to support an organization like Ronald McDonald House that eases the burden on these families.”

About Ronald McDonald House Charities New York Metro
RMHC New York Metro’s mission is to build a community of compassionate care by creating and supporting programs that directly improve the health and well-being of sick children and their families. Thousands of families with sick children travel to the greater New York area each year to find lifesaving, medical care. Many families lack accommodation near the hospital, as well as the financial resources needed to support their sick children. RMHC New York Metro extends its support for families with sick children through the operation of a Ronald McDonald House in New Hyde Park and two Ronald McDonald Family Rooms at Stony Brook Children’s Hospital. The organization also provides financial support to three, independent, Ronald McDonald House Chapters in the greater New York Metro area and community grants to regional children’s charities. For more information on RMHC New York Metro programs or on becoming a donor or volunteer, please visit rmhcnym.org.
